Impressive Commencement Week

The Twenty-second Annual Commencement Week activities at the Northwest School were brought to a close with the presentation of diplomas to eighty senior and advanced students, Thursday, March 28. Parents and alumni from every Northwestern Minnesota county were among those present at the Commencement exercises Thursday afternoon and evening. The school auditorium was filled to capacity and many were forced to stand throughout the Thursday evening program, while others were unable to gain admittance.

The Commencement Week activities began with the Baccalaureate services held at the First M. E. church at Crookston, Sunday evening, March 23. Reverend R. M. Vordale, pastor of the English Lutheran church of Crookston, delivered the main address, "Determining Factors in Life." Others participating in the exercises were Reverend P. C. Sorenson, Reverend P. E. Moen and Reverend T. B. Shorts. Sacred music was offered by Miss Hildur Peterson, Miss Grace Warne and Miss Rose Polski of the Music department, while the mixed chorus and the double octette also offered special numbers.

Monday evening, March 24, the Annual Inter-Society Declamatory contest was held. Johanna Caudle, Crookston, was awarded first place in the girls' dramatic section with her reading, "The Highwayman." In the Oratorical section, Robert Gleason, Minneapolis, was awarded first place on "What Price Peace." The Maria Sanford society won first place in the girls' literary societies, while the Agrarian society captured similar honors among the boys' societies.

Tuesday evening the members of the Senior class were the guests of Superintendent and Mrs. A. A. Dowell at their home on the campus. A program of parlor games, music contests, skits, etc., occupied the attention of the guests until the refreshments were served. The members of the Advanced class were entertained by their class advisers, Miss Retta Bede and Mr. J. W. Mlinar in the parlor of Robertson Hall.

Wednesday evening, the annual student music recital was held in the school auditorium under the direction of Miss Rose Polski, Miss Grace Warne, and Miss Hildur Peterson.

Junior Short Course To Be Held in June

The nineteenth annual boys' and girls' short course will be held at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, June 9-12, inclusive. According to District Club Leader H. A. Pflughoeft, the change from the first week in April to June proved to be very popular last year, when a new attendance record was established and the course declared the most successful ever staged at this institution. The Northwest School faculty will be in charge of the instructional work, including lectures and demonstrations on livestock, crops, cooking, clothing, and canning. They will be assisted by county agents from various Red River Valley counties. The services of two former members of the Northwest School faculty, Mildred Schenck, assistant state club leader, and Laura Gerber, now with the National Dairy Council, have been secured. The outdoor games, contests, stunts, tours, and movies will be a part of each day's program. The camp idea will be carried out and every effort will be made to not only plan a good educational program, but to make it a fine outing for the boys and girls.

Four-H club members who have attended these short courses in the past have benefited materially by so doing, many having ranked high in state competition. The program will be so planned that each boy and girl will be able to take the work that they are especially interested in. Maurice Bursheim, principal of the Bejou school and leader of the newly organized club there, writes that he is endeavoring to get the entire club to attend. In a number of communities, the clubs are putting on short plays, basket so-

MLINAR REPORTS

RECORD ENROLLMENT

A new attendance record was set at the Northwest School during the past school year with a total enrollment of 353, surpassing last year's previous high mark by 34. Registrar J. W. Mlinar reports that eighteen counties are represented in the enrollment, while several out-of-state students are also included. The state of North Dakota was represented by three students; Wisconsin, one; South Dakota, one, and Saskatchewan, Canada, one. The counties represented in the enrollment are Becker, Beltrami, Big Stone, Clay, Clearwater, Hennepin, Hubbard, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnonten, Marshall, Norman, Ottertail, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, and Roseau.

ELECTRIC REFRIG-

ERATOR INSTALLED

A new electric refrigerator, which has been added to the Northwest School dining hall, will materially increase the effectiveness of that particular department in catering to the wants of the students. The box is fifteen feet long, ten feet high and about four feet deep. It is divided into three separate compartments, one for meats, one for dairy products and one for general storage and is so arranged that, during the vacation months, any one section can be used without using the remaining two. The interior of the box is lined with metal, while the exposed outside surface is finished in golden oak and trimmed with nickel plated hardware.

The cooling system consists of the latest type Frigidaire compressor and coils designed to keep a constant uniform temperature in each of the three compartments.

The new refrigerator, installed under the direction of A. M. Foker, superintendent of buildings and grounds, and Miss Fanny Lippitt, in charge of the dining hall, is just another step toward keeping the Northwest School the Modern School of Service for the boys and girls of Northwestern Minnesota.

HOME PROJECT

WORK POPULAR

A new leadership project in livestock judging has been added to the list of summer projects that will be carried on at home by Northwest School students this summer. Seven boys have enrolled for this project in connection with the 4-H Club leadership work supervised by Mr. H. A. Pflughoeft, district boys' and girls' club leader. Thirteen other students, including four girls, will undertake leadership work this season.

Seventy-nine girls and 148 boys are enrolled in home project work which will be supervised by Miss Retta Bede, E. R. Clark, and R. J. Christgau, home project leaders. This is the largest number of home projects ever undertaken in one season by Northwest School students. Messrs. Clark and Christgau will start this month on the first round of home project visits.

The plant identification project, which has proved very popular during the last two seasons, has been modified to include field notes on habits of growth and practical methods of eradication of common troublesome farm weeds. The tractor operation project has been entirely revised and will offer an opportunity for obtaining some very useful and interesting information regarding tractor costs.

Pure seed production again leads as the most popular boys' project with 35 students enrolled. Potato growing is a close second with an enrollment of 26. Exhibits from all crops projects and from the plant identification work will be shown at the annual home project show at the school in November.

Other agricultural projects to be carried on this summer are sheep, swine, and baby beef production, dairy herd management, poultry culling, turkey production, farm accounting, building construction, beekeeping and sugar beet production. Records of labor and other costs will be kept by each student doing home project work and every project will be visited from time to time by the home project supervisors.

New projects in room furnishing and dressmaking have been planned by the home economics students, in addition to fourteen lines of project work developed in former years. Bread baking and garment making are the most popular projects in the girls' work. Canning and preserving, and various lines of fancy work also have been chosen by a large number of the girls. Each student who finishes a project in dress making, embroidery, hemstitching, or table linen, and many who complete baking projects, will exhibit at the annual home project show to be held at the Northwest School in connection with the Parents' Day program next November.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lee, (Herman, '13) and three sons are farming near Erskine, Minnesota.

GRADUATES OFFERED

SCHOLARSHIPS

Upon the completion of their work at the Northwest School, two members of the Advanced class were offered attractive scholarships by Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota. They are Harold Cordes, Henning, and Ernest Newhouse, Crookston. Both of these young men established high scholastic records in addition to taking an active part in extra curricular activities.

Harold Cordes was a member of the Aggie basketball teams during the past two seasons, and was a letter man in football last fall. He has also been active in dramatic work at the Northwest School, playing in "The Goose Hangs High" in 1928; taking the leading role in "The Show Off" in 1929, and playing an important role in "In Love With Love" during the past school year. He was also a member of the school quartet, as well as the boys' glee club and the mixed chorus.

SIMONSON WINS

SPELLING CONTEST

To Lawrence Simonson, McIntosh, freshman, goes the honor of being the champion speller of the spelling classes the past year. In a final spell-down held under the direction of Mr. E. W. Avery, debate coach and instructor, Lawrence defeated his two opponents and was given the title of champion. Honors for the first semester went to Christian Holte, Baudette, while Lawrence Simonson and his brother Herman were tied for first place at the end of the semester. Coach Avery placed the three students in a final contest with the younger of the two Simonsons winning. Honors for each semester go to the student having the highest average upon completion of the work. The winners of each semester are then pitted against each other in the final elimination contest. The tie for high honors during the second semester resulted in three entrants for the final spell-down.
