PROGRAM COMPLETE

FOR WOMEN'S CAMP

From the number of room reservations and requests for information that have been received, Registrar J. W. Mlinar anticipates a record attendance during the Fifth Annual Women's Camp which will be held at the Northwest School of Agriculture, June 16, 17, 18, and 19. Plans have been completed and the program is announced in this issue.

The educational program will be devoted to talks, and demonstrations emphasizing foods, clothing, textiles, home management and other problems of interest to the home maker. The evening program will be of a recreational and entertainment nature. Something different for each evening has been planned by the committee. The annual stunt night will be one of the big features. Local groups are urged to come prepared to make a real contribution to the stunt program.

Registration will begin Monday afternoon, June 16, at 4 o'clock, followed by the get-together dinner in the dining hall, and a re-union of the campers of '26, '27, '28, and '29. In the evening the election of officers will be held, after which there will be an informal reception.

The total expense for board, room, and entertainment, beginning with the get-together dinner Monday evening and continuing through Thursday afternoon will be $3.75. Additional meals will be charged at the rate of 25c for breakfast, 40c for dinner and supper, or $1.25 per day for board and room.

Campers are requested to bring the necessary bedding, such as blankets, sheets and pillows. Dormitory rooms are equipped with necessary furniture only. Those who plan to make a report on the camp to their local club should remember a pencil and a notebook. Umbrellas and rubbers may be useful.

Many outstanding lectures and demonstrations will be presented at the camp. Dean W. C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota will open the educational program Tuesday morning with "The Thought for the Day." Mrs.

Belle Osborn Fish will speak on "This Business of Being a Parent." "The Lovable, Lovable Child", and "Helping Children to Help Themselves." Miss Joan M. Rock will talk on "Many Hot Breads from One Pattern Recipe," "Bies in the Modern Manner" and "Cakes for Special Occasions." Miss Agnes A. Alexander, field nurse of the University of Minnesota Department of Health, will deliver talks on "Some Things Mothers Should Know," "Care and Feeding of Children," and "Causes and Prevention of Sickness." Mrs. Ida H. Cornforth, representing the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan, will also give several lecture-demonstrations on "What Shall We Have for Dinner?" and "Healthful Sweets." A demonstration will be given by Miss Adeline Rosendahl of Fargo, representing the Kerr Glass Manufacturing company. Mrs. John B. Cooley of Grand Forks, and Mr. John Saugstad of Crookston will also contribute to the program. Besides the special lecturers engaged for the camp, members of the Northwest School faculty will contribute their share to assure the women an enjoyable and valuable program.

The Camp is open to all women of Northwestern Minnesota. Prospective campers are requested to write the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, for room reservation. Please state whether there will be others in your party, and indicate your preference as to a room in the "quiet" or "noisy" dormitory.

POULTRY TRIAL REPORTED

The March 1, 1930 issue of Poultry Science carried an article on "Studies in Embryonic Mortality in the Fowl" by F. B. Hutt of the Poultry Department, University Farm, and A. M. Pilkey of the Northwest School and Station. This report presents in detail the results of cooperative trials initiated one year ago.

The authors conclude that the mortality rate of embryo in eggs laid after 12 noon was slightly higher than those laid before 9 a. m. This difference was greatest in March and was not observed after April 15.

BEEF CATTLE BULLETIN READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

Minnesota Bulletin 261 has recently been published. This bulletin deals with beef cattle feeding investigations that have been carried on at the Northwest Experiment Station during the past seven years. The title of this bulletin is "Sweet Clover Hay for Beef Cattle—Fattening Baby Beeves and Two-Year-Old Steers." Copies of this bulletin by O. M. Kiser, Station Animal Husbandman, and W. H. Peters, Chief of the Animal Husbandry Department, University of Minnesota, may be secured by writing to the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston.

LAST CALL FOR SHORT COURSE

Plans for the Nineteenth Annual Junior Short Course, to be held at the Northwest School June 9-12, have been completed by H. A. Pflughoeft, District Club leader, who will be in charge of the four days' encampment. Faculty of the Northwest School, county agents, and leaders, and special lecturers have been engaged to offer work that will be of value to all engaged in boys' and girls' club activities.

The course is open to all boys and girls of Northwestern Minnesota between 12 and 20 years of age. The total cost for the four days is $3.00. Those who plan to come should bring necessary bedding, such as blankets, sheets, pillows, towels, etc. Registration will take place Monday afternoon, June 9, and the first meal will be served in the school dining hall at supper time. The Northwest School bus will meet all trains Monday afternoon, June 9, and Tuesday morning, June 10.

Advance room reservations indicate that a very large number will enroll, and it is suggested that all those who plan to come write to the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, as early as possible for room reservation.

1931 AGGIE BOARD ANNOUNCED

Twenty-five members of the class of '31 were selected by their classmates to serve on the Red River Aggie board for 1931 under the direction of Miss Grace Warne and Mrs. BeBette Cenfield Genung, class advisers. The staff appointed is as follows: Editor-in-chief: Arthur Grove, Roosevelt; Assistant Editor-in-chief: John Pearson, Middle River; Senior Class Editors: Ann Brandli, Warroad and Halley Gill, Ada; Alumni Editors: Richard Radway, Roosevelt and Rish-ton Bedard, Northcote; Class and Literature: George Schultz, Fergus Falls and Herbert Schroeder, Fergus Falls; Music and Drama: Mildred Malme, Nielsville; Athletics: Harold Nelson, Hawley and Kenneth Avery, Hallock; Humor and Jokes: Raymond Peterson, East Grand Forks and Angela Filipi, Angus; Society Calendar: Dora Woods, Radville, Sask., and Arlene Hill, Brooks; Snap Shots: Clinton Donley, Fergus Falls; Art Editor: Helmer Nornes, Beltrami; Business Manager: Allan Hoff, Dalton; Assistant Business Manager: Clarence Peterson, Hawley; Subscriptions: Ann Thorson, Littlefork; Advertising: Arthur Hendrickson, Fosston and Robert Foker, Crookston; Staff Typists: John Anderson, Hallock, Ann Brandli, Warroad, and Angela Filipi, Angus.

FORMER FACULTY MEMBER WRITES

Writing for latest information and news of the Northwest School, in order to encourage her nephew to enroll at the institution during the next school year, a letter was received from Mrs. T. R. Sewall, Stevens Point, Wisconsin, some days ago. Mrs. Sewall, who before her marriage was Mabel H. Olson, was an instructor in home economics at the Northwest School from 1913 to 1916. Her husband, T. R. Sewall, was also on the Northwest School faculty as superintendent of buildings and grounds and instructor in motors from 1911 to 1916. Their marriage took place in 1914. In 1916 the couple moved to Stevens Point, Wisconsin, where Mr. Sewall entered business and where they now reside. Mrs. Sewall writes as follows: "Several years ago I was a member of the faculty of the Northwest School. I have always felt that it was an excellent place for boys who are interested in farming and in business. I have a nephew who finishes the eighth grade in June and seems to want to attend an institution such as the Northwest School. Please send me such information as will help him and his parents make a decision. Please extend my greetings to all faculty members, alumni and students."

CROPS AND SOILS DAY

Plans are under way to make July 21 the biggest and best Crops and Soils Day ever held at the Northwest Station. An invitation has been extended the Minnesota Crop Improvement association to join with the Red River Valley Crops and Soils association on that day.

Although definite action has not been taken by the state association at this time, it is believed they will accept. In such a case, they will eliminate their annual field day to attend the local program. Tentative plans include a morning trip to nearby farms of Valley seed growers, a short speaking program in the afternoon, and a tour of the experimental plots.

PRESIDENT COFFMAN

FORWARDS CERTIFICATES

Special certificates in recognition of their outstanding work during the past school year have recently been forwarded to members of the debate, livestock judging and crops judging teams. These awards were issued by the University of Minnesota through the President's office and bear the signature of President L. D. Coffman. Those to whom the certificates have been forwarded are: Debate: Kenneth Flom, Twin Valley; Harold L. Johnson, Radium; Harvey Johnson, Hawley; Winton Knutson, Thief River Falls; John Pearson, Middle River; Clarence Peterson, Hawley. Livestock Judging: Harold Bendix, Henning; Lawrence Peterson, Gary; Clarence Carlson, Stephen. Crops Judging: Robert Larson, Crookston; Marvin Wardner, Fisher.

Alumni Reunion, June 28, 1930

Judging from letters that have been coming into the office, the largest crowd that ever attended a reunion of graduates and former students of the Northwest School will assemble for the 1930 reunion, which will be held on the campus, June 28.

A program crammed with excitement and fun is being prepared by the committee in charge. Contests of all sorts, including races, a baseball game, and kitenball game, will enliven the festivities. In the afternoon the annual baseball game between the alumni and students will take place while the faculty of the Northwest School has again issued a challenge to the alumni to a kitenball game in the earlier part of the evening. Novelty races for boys and girls are being scheduled. The annual dance will be the feature during the evening and a first class orchestra will furnish the music.

Prominent Livestock Men on Program

Among the specialists from University Farm, St. Paul, will be W. C. Coffey, Dean of the Department of Agriculture; Dr. W. L. Boyd, Veterinary Division; W. H. Peters, Chief of the Division of Animal Husbandry, and Wm. E. Petersen, of the Dairy Division. O. M. Kiser and R. J. Christgau represent the Livestock department of the Northwest School and Station.

A short discussion by Ed. Bolstad of Wingier will be of interest to Northwestern Minnesota beef producers. Mr. Bolstad was in the 1929 Carload Baby Beef Contest. These calves were bred and raised by Mr. Bolstad and fed under farm conditions common to the Red River Valley. The fact that this carload of calves stood third in the state, competing with calves fed in the southern part of the state, indicates splendid possibilities for beef production in the Red River Valley. Mr. Bolstad will summarize his experience in beef cattle feeding.

One of the features of the day's program will be the inspection of the 32 Hereford baby beeves that have been on feed for the past few months, and a review of the results received from the various rations. R. J. Christgau has charge of the guessing contest that has become a popular part of the day's program. Those interested will have an opportunity to inspect the Northwest Experiment Station herds and flocks.

The ladies are also invited to come with the men, and remain for the annual Women's Camp, which opens the afternoon of Feeders' Day, and continues through Thursday, June 19.
