Superintendent Dowell and Professor Jesness Publish Book

The host of friends of Superintendent A. A. Dowell in the Red River Valley will be pleased to learn of his joint authorship of a book entitled, "The American Farmer and the Export Market," which has just come from the press. The announcement of the publication and resume of this book as published in the Minneapolis Journal of February 18 is worthy of repetition.

"The hope of American agricultural prosperity lies in the development of foreign markets, Professors O. B. Jesness and A. A. Dowell say in their book, 'The American Farmer and the Export Market', to be issued this week by the University Press.

"Admitting there are many practical difficulties to surmount in providing export markets for American farm products, chiefly because of the accepted national policy of making the country self-sufficient and the fact expansion of foreign markets is closely associated with politics at home and abroad, the authors contend the home market is not now able to take care of American farm production in a way to make prosperity certain. They contend it offers small hope of being able to do so in the future."

Larger Market Seen Necessary

"Although they point out the home market is the important market for American production, the authors contend there are numerous basic farm products, produced in surplus, must have a larger market if the farmers producing them are to have any chance to prosper. Some of these are wheat, cotton, tobacco, dairy products and corn marketed both as corn and as pork and pork products, they write.

"The authors submit figures from government reports to show it required more than 43 million acres to produce the exports of 11 important farm crops for the ten-year average from 1920 to 1930. The products from these acres the authors point out, were a surplus not needed or used in the home market and had to be sold abroad or not sold at all.

"These surpluses piled up although production was not unusual and the income from it was not sufficient to promote farm prosperity. The inference of the authors is that the road to farm prosperity is not along the line

1911 BASKETBALL TEAM HONORED

After a lapse of twenty-three years, three of the six lettermen of the first Northwest School basketball team returned for a special recognition dinner and program prepared in their honor. The returning veterans and their wives were also guests of the school at the conference title basketball game between the Northwest School and West Central School teams.

Acting Superintendent T. M. McCall presided at the dinner meeting. Coach R. J. Christgau spoke for the athletic department and told how all present and former lettermen are now being given the Honorary "A" certificate and "A" card, the latter to serve as a pass to all Northwest School athletic contests. Mr. McCall, in presenting the honorary "A's" to the 1911 team members present, recalled many amusing incidents which occurred when he first met two of the team members as they later played on the 1912 squad. Dr. Harry Hedin of East Grand Forks, in responding for the team, paid high tribute to the faculty and student body for the perpetuation of the many fine traditions of the Northwest School. Dr. Harry Hedin, in addition to being a successful practitioner in veterinary medicine, has taken a prominent part

COMMENCEMENT WEEK MARCH 25-29

A cordial invitation is extended to the Red River Valley folks to attend the commencement exercises at the Northwest School during the week of March 25-29. An outstanding program has been arranged; outside speakers of prominence have been secured for the baccalaureate sermon and commencement address.

The program in general demonstrates the accomplishments of the graduates in various branches of work offered at the school. Commencement week activities begin with the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday evening, March 25, at 7:30 o'clock. The Senior class has chosen Reverend Elmer Johnson, Rector of the Christ's Episcopal church, Crookston, to give the commencement sermon.

Monday evening will be devoted to the declamatory and extemporaneous speaking contests at which time the class winners will compete for final honors.

Tuesday evening the Senior class and their advisers will be guests at a reception given by Acting Superintendent and Mrs. T. M. McCall at their home on the school campus.

Wednesday evening has been set aside for the music recital at which time a program will be presented by students from the departments of vocal, violin and piano instruction. The music recital marks the culmination of the year's work in music in the various departments.

The school and alumni luncheon is scheduled for 12:30 Thursday. Alumni and friends coming to the luncheon should make reservations in advance.

Thursday afternoon, beginning at three o'clock, the Senior class, together with their advisers, will present their final class program.

The Commencement program begins at eight o'clock on Thursday evening, March 29. Professor Malcolm MacLean, Director of the General college, University of Minnesota, will give the commencement address. Acting Superintendent T. M. McCall will present the diplomas and announce the awards.

RED RIVER VALLEY DAIRYMEN'S SCHOLAR- SHIPS ANNOUNCED

The Red River Valley Dairymen's association has cooperated with the Northwest School of Agriculture in sponsoring a summer project in Dairy Herd management for Northwest School students. Scholarships totaling $40.00 were awarded four students who kept the best dairy herd records for a period of six months ending in October. First place in the contest was awarded Torleif Boe of McIntosh; second place, Llewellyn Reese, of Park Rapids; third place, Clarence Weckwerth of Hazel, and fourth to Willard Kimmel of Fergus Falls. Torleif Boe, winner of the first prize in dairy herd management, was also declared winner of the cup awarded to the Northwest School boy doing the best project work for the year.

"OPEN HOUSE" IN ALL DORMITORIES

The schedule for "Open House" in the dormitories was opened Sunday, March 4, at which time the Senior Hall boys and their preceptor, Mr. S. A. Anderson, were hosts to parents, students and friends. The pleasant weather permitted many parents to attend.

Open House will be held in Stephens Hall, the junior and freshman boys' dormitory, on March 11, and on March 18 in Robertson Hall, the girls' dormitory.

A committee of judges consisting of A. M. Foker, R. S. Dunham, and R. J. Christgau judged the rooms at Senior Hall Open house and made the following awards: first prize, Clarence Skaren and Floyd Tack, both of East Grand Forks; second prize, Jack Hirst, Warren, and Harold Clow, Orleans; third, Raymond Grabowski, St. Paul, and Orville Erickson, Hawley.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The most outstanding social event of the school year took place when the Junior class entertained the seniors at a "Flight dinner" on March 5 in the dining hall. The Junior class carried out an air flight theme.

The tables, arranged in the shape of airplanes, were beautifully decorated in the senior class colors, violet and silver, with violet candles and center bouquets of narcissus, the senior class flower. Streamers of violet and silver from center lights, suggestive of chandeliers, lent an air of festivity to the impressive setting. Ideas suggestive of a plane and the flight were cleverly carried out in the programs and menu.

The school orchestra under the direction of Miss Constance Lane provided the "contact" when the doors of the dining room were thrown open to the senior guests, faculty and friends. The toastmaster, Burnet Bergeson, Twin Valley, president of the junior class, and the flight commander, gave the address of welcome to seniors and guests. The "Take Off" a toast to the seniors, was presented by Laura Hanson of Thief River Falls. The senior response, "The Flight," was given by Agatha Olson, Beltrami. A junior vocal trio consisting of Joyce Starnes, Halma; Irene Holst, Thief River Falls; Olive Steen, Halstad, entertained as "The Drone of the Impulses." Noel Hanson, of Detroit Lakes, as the "Steward," gave a greeting to the advanced class and Orville Erickson of Hawley responded for the advanced, who were the passengers of the plane. This number was followed by a violin duet, "The Scream of the Wires," by Clarence Skaren of East Grand Forks, and Arthur Anderson of Oklee.

Frederick Reitan, Hawley, as the "Co-Pilot," gave a toast to the faculty. Mr. J. W. Mlinar as the "Pilot" responded on behalf of the faculty. Seniors and guests were invited to listen to the "Air Waves," delightful solos sung by Miss Katherine Hennig of the music department. Acting Superintendent T. M. McCall as "Commander-in-Chief" and final speaker on the toast program, gave some splendid advice to all before the planes with their passengers "hopped off" to the Northwest School airport.

The gymnasium, with its blue sky, moon and stars formed a most appropriate "landing field" for the end of the flight. A silver and blue fence surrounding the field with a beacon light and a replica of a hangar in which the five piece orchestra was seated further carried out the flight theme.

A grand march under the direction of Miss Retta Bede opened the program dance and games at this airport. The grand march was led by Burnet Bergeson and Laura Hanson; Noel Hanson and Joyce Starnes; Fred Reitan and Irene Holst; George Kersting and Olive Steen, officers of the Junior class. The grand march ended in the formation of the letter "M" with the guests singing the Minnesota Rouser, after which the locomotive cheer was led by Burnet Bergeson and Noel Hanson.

The senior class officers are Lester

Lerud, Twin Valley, president; Harold Clow, Orleans, vice president; Helen Carlson, Halstad, treasurer; Helen Krogstad, Fertile, secretary; William Johnston, Kennedy, sergeant at arms, and Miss Elsie Mae Kingston and Mr. D. C. McGenty, advisers.

Officers of the junior class are Burnet Bergeson, president; Noel Hanson, vice president; Joyce Stamnes, treasurer; George Kersting, secretary, and Clarence Stromberg, Rosewood, sergeant at arms. Misses Fae Hughbanks and Lydia Dahlen are class advisers.

The following committees were in charge of the various features of the evening's entertainment:

Program and Entertainment: Burnet Bergeson, Harold Sanden, Earl Lindberg, Irene Holst, and Ebba Maattala; Decorations: Noel Hanson, Marcus Wolden, Donald Gandrud, Clifford Sauer, Arthur Anderson; Menu: Joyce Stamnes, Laura Hanson, Mildred Youmans, Marie Johansen, Alvina Urbaniaik; Finance and Ticket committee: George Kersting, Carlos Grove, Clarence Stromberg, Elmer Ross and Fred Reitan.

"CAPTAIN APPLEJACK" SENIOR CLASS PLAY A SUCCESS

"Captain Applejack," the Senior class play, was very ably presented by a strong cast on the evenings of February 26 and 27, at the school auditorium. The play was put on under the direction of Mrs. Cynthia Weinberger Haugland, head of the English department. Good crowds attended the play each evening and the play was considered a success in every way.

"Captain Applejack" is an Arabian Nights adventure of a staid and respectable English bachelor, Ambrose Applejohn, who tired of the monotony and formality of the life of an English gentleman and longed for adventure and romance. Much clever acting was woven around the plot of crooks to get the rumored parchment and hidden treasure in the Applejohn mansion; the bachelor's dream in which he became the swashbuckling Captain Applejack, ruler of a mutinous pirate crew; the awakening in time to thwart the robbers; the finding of the hidden treasure and romance under his own roof.

Jerome Wermager of Crookston played the leading role as Captain Applejack. The members of his household having leading parts were Poppy Faire, a ward, played by Karine Opdahl of Beltrami; Mrs. Agatha Whatcombe by Helen Carlson, Halstad, and the butler Lush by Francis Nelson of Hendrum. The parts of smooth international crooks were played by Helen Krogstad of Fertile as Anna Valeska; Harold Clow, Orleans, as Ivan Borolsky; Kenneth Gaare, Perley as Horace Pengard, and Lois Sargent of Crookston as Mrs. Pengard. Edson Washburn of Crookston, played the part of Johnny Jasen, the "high pressure" sales agent, while minor parts were played by Agatha Olson of Beltrami and Erling Olson of Fertile. Pirate parts were played by Willard Kimmel, Fergus Falls; Paul Billberg, Wannaska; Peter Tandberg, Newfolden; Clarence Clementson, Erskine; Glenn Ellinger, Crookston; Clarence Skaren, East Grand Forks; Clarence Widner, Argyle; William Johnston, Kennedy; Lester Lerud, Twin Valley; and Gail Rowley, Lancaster.

A. M. Foker, Misses Retta Bede and Grace Warne assisted with the designs and costumes; George Hillman as chief electrician was assisted by Floyd Tack. The Committees staging the play consisted of Stage Managers William Johnston and Gilbert Gunderson; Properties, Agatha Olson; Costumes, Margaret Lerud; Publicity, Willard Kimmel; Business Managers, Selmer Johnson and Jerome Molacek; and House Manager, Lester Lerud.

COMPETITION KEEN IN CLASS BASKETBALL

With the basketball season rapidly drawing to a close, enthusiasm is high on the school campus as two class teams in both boys' and girls' divisions are fighting it out for championship honors. The Senior and Advanced teams in both divisions are expected to fight it out in the final game of the season. In the boys' division, the two teams are tied with four victories and one defeat each. The victor of the Senior-Advanced contest will be awarded the championship and be given the silver trophy.

In the girls' division, a race equally as exciting has developed with the Senior and Advanced classes again fighting it out for honors. The winner in this division will be awarded a silver trophy, the first basketball award in girls' physical education work.

Triangular Debate March 9-10

Debate Coach D. C. McGenty will accompany the Northwest School negative team to St. Paul for the annual clash with the Central School aggies on Friday, March 9. The Northwest School affirmative team meets the West Central negative at Crookston, Saturday, March 10.

The question for debate this year is one of timely interest: namely, "Resolved that the United States should adopt the essential features of the British system of radio operation and control."

The negative team making the trip to St. Paul consists of Richard Holmgren of Carp; Paul Hanson of Crookston; Esther Haugo of Mahnomen. Rose Naplin of the affirmative team will accompany the debaters on the trip. The team plans to return to Crookston in time for the home debate.

The affirmative team which debates the Morris Aggies consists of the following debaters: Rose Naplin of Wylie, Morris Engelstad of Thief River Falls, and Burnet Bergeson of Twin Valley. Other members of the debate squad are Selmer Johnson and Walter Beatty of Crookston, Laura Hansen of Thief River Falls and Joyce Stamnes of Halma.

Three instructors from Warren High school will act as judges of the home debate. The judges are Misses Margaret Powers and Signe Carlson and Mr. K. Kiland. Mrs. Cynthia Haugland will preside at the debate.

OPEN LETTER FROM

SUPT. A. A. DOWELL

Those of us who are visiting Washington for the first time are impressed with the fact that it is a very busy city. Each morning and evening the streets are filled with street cars, busses, automobiles and pedestrians hurrying to and from the mammoth government buildings. Many new buildings have been completed during recent years while other beautiful structures are under construction.

Due to the many new activities associated with the recovery program, buildings that were planned to take care of all government needs for years to come are already filled to overflowing. As soon as a new wing is completed, furniture and other equipment are installed for immediate use. Employees who have been here for years say that conditions are much like the War period of 1917 and 1918.

All agree that these are interesting days in Washington. New plans are announced daily, plans that would have seemed revolutionary a few years ago. Time only will answer the question as to whether they are really revolutionary or conservative.

When one peeps under the surface, it is clear that some of these moves cannot be regarded as entirely consistent. For instance, reduced production does not lead to increased employment; fewer hours' work per week, unless accompanied by improved technique, will not result in an increased output of want-satisfying goods; higher internal prices will not be conducive to an expansion of exports; the encouragement of subsistence farming will not result in an increased domestic demand for farm products, and nationalism does not mean a higher standard of living.

Admitting these conflicting efforts, it is clear that progress has been made. People are hopeful. Recovery is under way. The problem of the future will be to make a careful distinction between those efforts which impede as compared with those which promote progress.

To faculty, students and alumni of the Northwest School, the Dowells send greetings, and best wishes for a successful school year and a happy commencement week.

JESNESS PUBLISH BOOK

of reducing production to meet home needs but in seeking markets for normal production wherever the markets can be found."

See Little Hope In Trends

"The authors do not believe the home market can be built up sufficiently to absorb an amount of farm products such as American farmers will and must produce to make American agriculture dependably prosperous.

"In population growth, in trend from farm to city, in removal of submarginal lands from cultivation and in increased consumption when prosperity returns they fail to see sufficient promise the American market ever can be expanded to a point where it will absorb farm production and maintain prices on a basis calculated to solve the so-called farm problem.]

"Theoretically," they assert, "it would be possible to adjust farm production to the needs of the home market in three ways: by removing approximately one-sixth of the present farm population; by eliminating completely one acre in every six or seven now in crops, or by reducing our total annual production by one-sixth or one-seventh." They point out the only practical course to assure a farm market necessary to farm prosperity is in exports.

Practical Handicaps Admitted

"Referring to the growth of nationalism in countries where the American farmer must seek markets, the erection of tariff and quota barriers and the effort to become self-sufficient as to food, the authors admit the program of developing foreign markets is surrounded by difficulties of a highly practical character. Considering the problem on a long-time basis, they believe the foreign market offers more and safer possibilities than any program of depending upon the home market.

"Professor Dowell is head of the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston and Professor Jesness is chief of the division of agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota. Both men have been called in consultation in recent months to help work out AAA (agricultural adjustment administration) policies."

in civic affairs of his home town and is now commander of the Ninth District American Legion. Mrs. Hedin, formerly head of the music department at the Northwest School, and Master David Hedin were present for the program.

John Bergh, now farming at Hallock, was a forward on the 1911 team. Mr. Bergh has a son Arlo who is in his second year at the Northwest School.

John Lee, the third team member present, was a forward on the '11 team. Mr. Lee, in visiting the campus Saturday for the first time in 23 years, was amazed at the changes and progress made. Mr. Lee is now an automobile dealer at Fargo, North Dakota. Mrs. Lee was also an honor guest of the occasion.

Members of the 1911 team who were unable to be present for the program included Elmer Saterstrom, Princeton; Peter Nelson, Gary, and Jorgen Hushagen, Cut Knife, Sask., Canada.

Edward Johnson of Hallock, a member of the 1912 basketball team, was present and extended greetings to the faculty and student body. Other prominent Northwest School "A" men present for the dinner and game included Chester Engman of Hallock, Arthur Hendrickson of Fosston and Archie Northup of Hawley. A large delegation of former students and alumni were on hand later in the evening for the Crookston-Morris conference game.

BASKETBALL SEASON REVIEW

When the curtain came down on the 1934 school basketball season, the Northwest Aggies found they had gained seven victories and suffered five defeats. Included in the record were two victories and one defeat in Minnesota Ag School conference play, which resulted in capturing second place in the final conference standings. The Morris Aggies by virtue of their one-sided victory over the Northwest School five copped championship honors in conference play.

Victories during the season were gained as follows: Gonvick Independents, 2 games; East Grand Forks High, 2 games; Plummer High; Grand Rapids Aggies and St. Paul Aggies. Defeats were administered the Northwest team by Thief River Falls High; Bemidji Teachers', 2 games; Park River Aggies, and Morris Aggies.

In conference games, the Northwest team gained a 26-25 victory over the North Central five at Grand Rapids in a game replete with thrills. Christgau's men snatched the victory in the last ten seconds of play after Grand Rapids had gained a comfortable lead in the first half.

Following the Grand Rapids victory, Christgau's men gained conquests over three non-conference opponents: East Grand Forks was defeated 27-20; Gonvick Independents bowed by a 45-32 score and the Plummer High team was set back 26-12.

In the first home conference game played against the Central School Aggies, the Northwest team appeared to be badly outplayed by the St. Paul quint who put on a scoring rush during the first half to capture a 21-8 lead. The downstate team added to their total with one basket shortly after the beginning of the second half and then the Northwest team went to work, holding the St. Paul outfit and putting on a scoring bee which gave them the lead in the last minute of play of 32-30. A St. Paul basket was scored just as the whistle blew ending the regulation playing period and knotting the count 32-32. In the overtime period, the Northwest School team scored one basket and two free throws to gain a 36-32 victory. The game was one of the most thrilling ever played in a Northwest School gym.

The final conference game of the season to determine the 1934 champion proved to be a one-sided victory for the Morris Aggies. The Northwest team played an excellent defensive and offensive game during the first quarter but experienced considerable difficulty in scoring. Christgau's men surprised their opponents with many excellently executed plays, but the scoring "breaks" were against them and the Morris team gained a 7-1 lead in the first quarter. During the remaining three quarters of the game, the Morris quint had things pretty much their own way. At the halfway mark, Morris led 20-6 and added to this comfortable margin during the remainder of the game, the final score being 41-12 in favor of Morris. The victory gave the West Central school championship honors for the 1934 season.

Players who closed their basketball careers in the Morris encounter were Captain Rodney Lindstrom, Lake Park, forward; Clarence Weckwerth, Hazel, guard; Carman Eeg, Gary, center; Theos Morck, Crookston, forward; Oscar Larson, Crookston, reserve forward; Cyrus Oistad, Shelly, reserve forward.

Outstanding candidates for the 1935 team are: Stanley Alseth, Fox; Ralph Sheldon, Bagley; Elmer Ross, Fisher; Paul Billberg, Wannaska; Clarence Clementson, Erskine; Clarence Stromberg, Rosewood; Roland Wentzel, Fisher; Gilmar Alseth, Willmar; Ray Oen, Thief River Falls; Kenneth Albertson, Crookston; Richard Johansen, Pitt, and Fred Reitan, Hawley.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Christgau of the Northwest School announce the birth of a baby boy, John Frederick, on Sunday, February 11 at the Bethesda hospital, Crookston.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lieberg '13 of Badger are the parents of a daughter born Saturday, February 10.
