WINTER SHOWS TO BE HELD FEBRUARY 2-6

Plans for the 32nd annual Red River Valley Winter Sows and Northwest School Farmers' Week, February 2-6, are now complete and copies of the program have been given wide circulation. Card posters with announcements of the main events on the program for the week and large sheets advertising the livestock sales on February 5 and 6 have been distributed throughout the Red River Valley counties.

Superintendent T. M. McCall of the Northwest School, who is president of the Winter Shows Board of Managers, in speaking of the 1942 Shows, states "Prospects are unusually bright for a record number of high quality exhibits in all of the livestock, poultry, and farm crops classes. In spite of the record demand for purebred animals, livestock breeders are bringing in their herds and flocks to demonstrate that the area is fast becoming a supply source for breeding animals. Many new livestock breeders will appear in the show ring this year."

Several improvements have been made in the livestock barns this year. The most important change made has been the re-arrangement of the swine barn to make room for the poultry show. The second floor of Annex A which formerly housed the poultry show has been given over to concessions, such as feed, and exhibitors who were formerly crowded for lack of space.

An increased number of corn exhibits is expected to replace a probable loss in small grain exhibits. Special interest in corn this year will be centered on hybrid varieties and strains of value to Red River Valley growers. Many of the small grain producers, fortunate enough to get threshing done before the fall rains, have won recognition at the International Grain and Hay Show and at the Crops Improvement Show at St. Paul.

The potato, honey, and onion show is expected to equal the showing made in 1941. An educational exhibit showing advantages of washing table-stock potatoes will be of special interest to Valley growers this year.

The 4-H club exhibits in corn, potatoes, and livestock classes, long an important feature of the Winter Shows, will fill all of their allotted space.

Educational exhibits will entirely fill the second floor of the Crops Building and a part of the main floor. Exhibits on grades and varieties of spring and durum wheats and barley will be on display from the Northwest Crop Improvement Association. The plant

MUSIC TO BE A FEATURE OF WINTER SHOWS PROGRAM

Beginning on Tuesday, February 3, music will play an important part on all Red River Valley Winter Shows programs.

On Tuesday, February 3, at the women's meeting, Miss Marian Frykman of the Northwest School staff will play organ selections and music students from the Northwest School will appear in solo and group numbers.

Music will occupy a prominent place in the pageant "Pan-Americana" on Tuesday, February 3. The background orchestral music will be supplied by some thirty musicians from the Crookston High School band and orchestra under the direction of T. W. Thorson. The background choral music for the pageant will be supplied by a chorus of some sixty voices from Norman and adjoining counties under the direction of Walter Drengson of Ada.

Crookston High School music groups will appear on the program at the women's meetings under the direction of Mr. T. W. Thorson on both Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

Mr. Bruce Robart, instructor in violin at the Wesley College, Grand Forks, and at the Northwest School, will appear on the Wednesday evening program and the Thursday women's program.

GEORGE NELIDOFF

George Nelidoff, Russian Baritone, will be soloist on the Friday evening, February 6, program during Winter Shows week. He will sing before the address of the evening by Sir Charles Morgan-Webb on "The Allied Strategy in the Far East."

WINTER SHOWS WILL HAVE A LARGE LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT

More than five hundred head of purebred livestock from the best herds of the Red River Valley will compete for the more than $5,000 livestock prizes offered at the Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston, Minnesota, during the week of February 2-6. Livestock shows, sales, and programs will be feature attractions of the 1942 Winter Shows week. The judging arena will be a center of continuous activity beginning with the judging contest on Monday, February 2, and ending with the sale of bred gilts and ewes on Friday afternoon, February 6.

More than sixty general livestock and dairy judging teams will compete for honors in the subcollegiate, high school, 4-H Club, and farmers' club contests. Three states, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, will be represented in the subcollegiate livestock and crops judging contests. Livestock judging in the 4-H club classes will be the feature of the Tuesday program. Judging in the open classes of beef and dairy cattle, sheep, and swine will begin late Tuesday, February 3, and continue until Thursday noon.

O. M. Kiser, secretary of the livestock show, states that 150 head of purebred stock will be sold at the afternoon sales on February 5 and 6. In the cattle sale, which will be held on February 5, animals from the following breeds will be sold: Hereford, Polled Herefords, Angus, Holstein, common and polled beef, and milking Shorthorns. Hampshire and Shropshire bred ewes, all common breeds of swine, and the new Hereford breed of hogs will be sold at the Friday sale on February 6.

Two nationally known auctioneers, Colonel Fred Reppert and Fred Chand-

Anne Simley To Appear On Winter Shows Program

Miss Anne Simley, instructor in speech and dramatics at Hamline University, St. Paul, will give readings on the women's program on Wednesday afternoon and on the general program Wednesday evening at the Red River Valley Winter Shows. Miss Simley, former head of the English Department at the Northwest School, has won an enviable reputation as a reader and entertainer. In her afternoon program, Miss Simley will read "The White Cliffs of Dover" and on the evening program she will give her famous Scandinavian dialect selections.

Winter Term Enrollment Good

The winter term enrollment at the Northwest School has proved to be much better than was expected. Eleven new or former students registered for the winter term making a total of 372 students for the year. A total of forty-five students had to withdraw from school during the year for a variety of reasons all traceable to the World War. With an actual attendance of 327 this term, the Northwest School still leads all of the state Schools of Agriculture in attendance.

School Organizes For "All-Out" War Effort

Members of the staff of the Northwest School are preparing lectures and work outlines for an "all-out" production of farm crops, livestock, and poultry and for greater efficiency in care and use of farm machinery, farm tractors, and automobiles. Extra-curricular lectures with mimeographed instructions will be given to all students to prepare them for the national emergency which now exists.

Special instruction in driving and care of automotive equipment will be given all students with lectures open to the public.

Special lectures and demonstrations on public health will also be given.

The special preparedness courses will be given during the last six weeks of the school term with the first lecture starting after Winter Shows week and mid-term examinations.

Concert Presented By Madrigal Club January 17

The Madrigal Club of the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, under the direction of Professor Hywel C. Rowland, gave a very pleasing concert at the Northwest School on Saturday evening, January 17. This was the first of a series of lyceum programs to be presented at the school during the winter term.

DEAN C. H. BAILEY WILL ATTEND WINTER SHOWS

C. H. Bailey

Dr. C. H. Bailey, Dean of the Department of Agriculture and Director of the Minnesota Experiment Station, University of Minnesota, nationally known for his research in the field of bio-chemistry, will speak on several programs Thursday, February 5. Dean Bailey will address the potato growers during the afternoon, speak at the Red River Valley Development Association's honor banquet, and preside at the evening program.

Valley-Wide Organizations to Meet During Winter Shows

Valley-wide organizations will hold annual meetings during Winter Shows week, February 2-6, at Crookston.

The Red River Valley Livestock Association now has its $50,000 property free from all indebtedness. Appropriate ceremonies will be held at the annual meeting in disposing of redeemed mortgages.

A call for a special weed and seed meeting on Tuesday, February 3, has been issued by C. P. Bull, director of the Division of Weed and Seed Control of the State Department of Agriculture. Township officers, township and district weed inspectors will meet to discuss weed control problems for 1942. The special weed meetings will be held in the City Hall.

Crops men will hold their special program on Tuesday afternoon, February 3, in the Armory. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association.

The three organizations meeting on Wednesday, February 4, include: Red River Valley county agents, directors of the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association, and the Ninth District Horticultural Association. Good-sized delegations from many of the twenty-three garden clubs of the area will be in attendance at the Horticultural Society meeting.

The Red River Valley Development Association will hold its annual meeting and honors banquet on Thursday, February 5. The Red River Valley Potato Improvement Association and the Northern Minnesota Poultry Association will also meet on Thursday, February 5.

A large general meeting of all organizations of farmers has been called to hear the "Agriculture in Defense" program on Friday afternoon, February 6.

District 4-H club leaders and 4-H club members will meet daily on February 2-6, inclusive.

WRESTLERS WIN ONE, LOSE ONE

The wrestling squad of the Northwest School met a Thief River Falls squad in the first meet of the season on Tuesday evening, January 13, at the Aggie gym. The Aggies won by a score of 30 to 18, winning six bouts by falls and losing three by falls and one by decision.

The second meet was held here on Saturday evening, January 17, with the matmen from North Central Agricultural School, Grand Rapids, for opposition. The meet was close but the husky boys from the Grand Rapids school came out on top with a score of 17 to 15.

Orville Dahlsad, Northwest School, 121 pounds, won by fall, over Robert Block, North Central School.

Donald Boutain, Northwest School, 128 pounds, lost by decision to Robert Clark, North Central School.

Pageant "Pan-Americana" To Be Presented February 3

A cast of more than two-hundred players and musicians from fourteen Red River Valley counties will present the pageant "Pan-Americana" at the Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston on Tuesday, February 3.

County recreational leaders are coaching their groups under the general direction of Miss Mary Anne Mather, county agent at large from University Farm, St. Paul. Miss Mather met with all county and district group leaders early in December and will meet again with all leaders of pageant scenes during the days prior to the two performances of the pageant on February 3.

The pageant is divided into five episodes which includes: History of Development of the Western Hemisphere, Cultural Development of the Americas, Agriculture in the Americas, Religion, and Home Life.

The dress rehearsal performance of the pageant will be held on the afternoon of February 3 at 2:30 o'clock, with the main showing scheduled for 8:00 P. M. Both performances will be in the Crookston High School auditorium.

In order to give out-of-town people opportunity to buy tickets in advance for the evening presentation of the pageant, reservations can be made by sending forty cents in cash to the Winter Shows, Northwest School, Crookston, Minnesota. A self addressed and stamped envelope should be enclosed with the reservation so the ticket can be mailed to the person making the reservation. Ticket reservations received before Wednesday, January 28, will be mailed to the purchaser; reservations received after January 28 will be held at the ticket window unless there is certainty of mail delivery. Out-of-town people also will be given opportunity to reserve seats on Monday, February 2, and Tuesday, February 3, until noon, in the Winter Shows office, Armory, Crookston. After that time, the sale of tickets will be open to the general public.

Seats for the pageant on Tuesday evening will be reserved for all holders of season tickets which are purchased by January 31. Season tickets may be purchased by out-of-town residents by writing to Winter Shows, Northwest School, and enclosing $1.10 (which includes $1.00 admission and 10 cents Federal tax).

A banquet for the pageant cast will be given by the Winter Shows Board of Managers on Tuesday evening.

ler of Decatur, Indiana, will cry the sales.

The famous four-horse team of Belgian mares and stallion from the C. U. Brantner farm of Georgetown will be on display throughout the week.

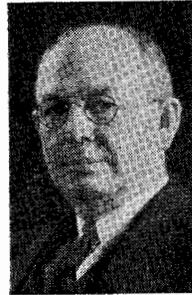

H. A. Pflughoeft, district leader of 4-H Club work, and W. O. Woodman, superintendent of 4-H Club livestock, are making preparations for more than one hundred head of livestock in their division.

PAGEANT AND OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS SCHEDULED FOR WINTER SHOWS

Speakers of national and international fame have been secured to address the evening and daytime audiences at the forthcoming Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston on February 2-6.

Internationalism will be the general theme of the Tuesday and Friday programs, with recent developments in education and aeronautics commanding attention on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The pageant "Pan-Americana", which is to be presented by an all Red River Valley cast on Tuesday, February 3, will portray not only the development of the American Republics since their discovery but will trace the development of the Good Neighbor Policy which has resulted in the formation of the Pan-American Union. County farm bureau and other organizations in the counties have cooperated with the Winter Shows Board of Managers in arranging the details for the presentation of this pageant.

Walter C. Coffey

President Walter C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, one of the leading educators of the United States, will speak on "The World's Challenge to Our Educational System". He will speak Wednesday evening, February 4. President Coffey's background of training and experience as a teacher, dean and director of a leading College and Experiment Station, fits him to speak with authority on education in a democracy. Through his many years of cooperation with the Red River Valley Winter Shows, President Coffey has won a great host of friends who will welcome him back to the 1942 Shows.

An Interesting Women's Program Arranged For Winter Shows

Women of the Red River Valley will find a well-balanced program of vital interest at the Red River Valley Winter Shows to be held in Crookston February 2-6. The program for the women's meetings was arranged by a committee consisting of the home economics staff at the Northwest School and presidents of the women's clubs of Crookston. The committee decided that subjects to be stressed this year would be public health, rural libraries, foods, and Inter-American cooperation.

The women's program on Tuesday afternoon, February 3, will be held in the Methodist Church, while the pro-

Canfield Cook

On Thursday evening, February 5, the speaker will be Canfield Cook of Chicago. Mr. Cook, who was born in Canada and one of the youngest members of the Royal Air Force during World War I, is now a citizen of the United States and a recognized authority in the field of aeronautics. He has made a study of the flying fields of Europe and the United States and will bring to his audience the latest information on aircraft in modern warfare. His subject will be "Planes and the War." The increasing reliance of warring nations on air power will make Canfield Cook's address one of utmost importance.

Sir Charles Morgan-Webb of London, England, will speak on Friday evening, February 6. Sir Morgan-Webb is president of the London and Suburban Press, and an outstanding authority on international affairs. He has served as Secretary of State for Burma and as Vice-Chancellor for the University of Rangoon, India. He is the author of several books and magazine articles. His subject will be "The Allied Strategy in the Far East." Sir Charles Morgan-Webb, with a rich background of experience in the English diplomatic service in the Far East, will bring to his Red River Valley audience an intimate picture of the Far East problem and what it means to the democracies.

Northwest School Students And Staff Contribute to Red Cross

Students and faculty at the Northwest School responded one-hundred per cent in their giving in the Red Cross drive for funds for war purposes. Following the special assembly, which was held on Wednesday, January 7, at which time leaders of the Red Cross drive in Crookston spoke on the objectives of the drive for war relief funds, an organization was perfected for the local drive. Mrs. H. A. Pflughoeft was selected as Red Cross chairman for the Northwest School, and the following were appointed chairmen for each of the dormitory visitation groups: Mrs. Oline Ness, Robertson Hall; Ferdinand

NORTHWEST FIVE WINS CONFERENCE OPENER

The Northwest School basketball squad chalked up its fourth win against two defeats when it won its opening Conference game against the West Central Aggies of Morris on Friday evening, January 16. The game was played at Crookston and the final score stood at 42 to 26.

The game was the best played by the local boys so far this season, with the credit for the win going to the team as a whole instead of to one or two individuals. All the starters contributed liberally to the scoring column. Harold Loyd and Harlan Beucler, Northwest School co-captains, have been the most reliable and consistent all through the season, both on offense and defense. Floyd Dahl, center, has come through splendidly in the last two games and in the West Central game, Harris Peterson and Theodore Kroulik found the range to count 10 and 6 points respectively.

The West Central team started strong, counting a basket on the first tip-off play and adding two more immediately. Harris Peterson then contributed most of his share of the scoring by counting seven points on three baskets and a free-throw in a few minutes to give Northwest a one point lead. At this point the West Central team lost a valuable player, Gene Wensman, with a sprained ankle. He had not done any scoring but was an important man in the offense. Beginning with the second quarter the locals scored very freely from all angles and the final quarter saw Coach Christgau of the Northwest Aggies sending in substitutions, with Herbert Anderson, Maynard Skeie, David Knowlton, Alfred Rustad, Elmer Erickson, and Robert Wiseth getting workouts.

The Aggies have now won from the West Central Aggies, Erskine, Warren, and Climax and have lost to Erskine and Fisher.

The basketball team has home games scheduled with Fosston, January 23 and Climax, January 27. Out-of-town Conference games are scheduled with North Central at Grand Rapids on January 30 and Central School at St. Paul on January 31.

pathology exhibit on the treatment of weather damaged seed grain will attract attention this year. Other educational exhibits will be put in place by the National Livestock and Meat Board, Barberry Eradication, State Department of Agriculture Weed and Seed Department, State Entomologist, Soil Conservation, Wind Erosion, Surplus Commodities, 4-H clubs, and Northwest School of Agriculture.

Programs of interest to crops, livestock, and potato producers, 4-H club leaders and members have been arranged for the week.

grams during the remainder of the week will be held in the Crookston High School auditorium.

Speakers scheduled for the women's meetings include: Tuesday, February 3, Mrs. Raymond Sayre of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, Des Moines, Iowa, "Extending Library Service to Rural Areas"; Mrs. D. A. McKenzie of Crookston, "What Can Be Done in Promoting Rural Libraries in the Red River Valley"; on Wednesday, February 4, "Recent Advances in Medicine", Dr. William A. O'Brien of the University of Minnesota; readings by Miss Anne Simley of Hamline University, St. Paul, and a former member of the Northwest School teaching staff; Thursday, February 5, "Sharp Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables in Cold Storage Lockers", Mrs. Darline Knowles of the North Dakota Agricultural College, Fargo; "The Place of Canned Foods in National Defense", Katherine R. Smith of the Home Economics Division, National Canners' Association, Washington, D. C.; and Friday, February 6, "Our South American Neighbors" (illustrated with colored motion pictures), Dr. Emilio C. LeFort of the University of Minnesota; "Planning Foods Program to War-Time Needs", Julia O. Newton, state home demonstration leader, University Farm, St. Paul.

Special music for the women's afternoon meetings will be furnished by Miss Marian Frykman, organist, of the Northwest School; students of the Northwest School and Crookston High School, and Mr. Bruce Robart, violinist, of Wesley College, Grand Forks.

Mandt, Stephens Hall; Andrew Skaar, Senior Hall.

While the students agreed to assess themselves ten cents each for the Red Cross drive, yet many contributed considerably more than this amount. All students in school, employees of the school and station, and members of the faculty contributed to the support of this worthy cause. The amount raised from the various groups was: staff and employees, $59.50; Senior Hall, $10.53; Stephens Hall, $12.31; Robertson Hall, $9.61; or a total of $91.95.

In the Red Cross Roll Call drive in November, every member of the school staff and every employee enrolled in the Red Cross. No special drive for membership was made in the boys' dormitories; however, the girls in Robertson Hall made a very fine record in giving. The total amount of money raised from the Red Cross Roll Call was $41.45.

The women on the Northwest School campus are now organizing for active participation in Red Cross work. A large number of articles and many pieces of knitting have been prepared by the girls in the Home Economics classes in their leisure time for both the Red Cross and Bundles for Britain organizations.

A string trio from the faculty of the Bemidji State Teachers College consisting of Charlene Dieterich, violinist; Milton Dieterich, cellist; and Ole Sand, pianist, will provide special music for the Thursday evening program.

The famous Nelidoff Trio from Chicago consisting of George Nelidoff, baritone; Melba Rinker, soprano; and Dorothy Jones, concert pianist, will present special music on Friday evening before the closing address which will be given by Sir Charles Morgan-Webb of London, England.
