Large Enrollment Assured For Fall Term

With all available space in the Northwest School dormitories assigned before September first, a larger than usual enrollment for the school year of 1943-44 has been assured. The housing problem for girls has been difficult with all rooms in Robertson Hall, the emergency ward in the Home Economics building, and the second floor of the students' Health Service assigned by late summer. The housing problem for girls will remain acute until the new dormitory for girls can be constructed after the war.

A canvass is being made of available rooms in rooming houses of Crookston and a list of rooming places, meeting University housing standards, will be furnished parents who wish to make arrangements for their children to live in town. Satisfactory rooming arrangements must be made by off-campus students before registrations at the school can be accepted.

The school dormitories will be ready for occupancy well in advance of the opening of school, according to A. M. Foker, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Considerable new dormitory equipment, such as double-deck beds and chairs, has been ordered for the boys' dormitories.

A full line of equipment for classrooms and laboratories is in readiness for school work. Strategic war materials, such as welding rods, have been secured to carry on the work in the welding classes. The compound microscopes have been reconditioned for the laboratory work in botany and biology. New specimens have been added to the collection of rocks and minerals in the soils laboratory.

Considerable new equipment has been ordered for the athletic program which includes football, basketball, cross-country, and miscellaneous sports.

Grain Drying Project Started

A cooperative project in the drying of high moisture content grain has been started at the Northwest Experiment Station with the Departments of Agricultural Engineering and Agronomy collaborating with the Sisalcraft Corporation of Chicago. H. W. Soderburg is leader of the project.

The object of the grain drying experiment is to find a means whereby the length of the combine day can be increased. Grain combined during the late morning which may have a moisture content too high for safe storage is used in the experiment.

The first drying tests have been made on Sisalcraft paper in comparison with a concrete platform. It is planned to dry out several lots of wheat and coarse grains during the threshing season.

New Music Staff Members Announced

Successors to Marian Frykman and Ingwelde Pfitzner, of the music teaching staff, have been appointed for the school year beginning in October.

Georgene Hanson

Miss Marian Frykman, instructor in piano for the past five years, resigned in late summer to accept a position as staff assistant of the Red Cross for overseas service. She has spent the summer in Washington, D. C., serving as mathematician for the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey until her application was accepted by the Red Cross.

Miss Ingwelde Pfitzner, instructor in voice and band during the past year, did substitute teaching at the Teachers College at River Falls, Wisconsin, during the spring semester. She has accepted a full-time teaching position there where she will devote her entire time to instruction on stringed instruments.

Jean Schanke

Miss Pfitzner. Miss Hanson, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, Department of Music, class of 1942, has had one year of teaching experience at Frazee, Minnesota. She is a member of the professional society of Sigma Alpha Iota; she is highly recommended by the members of the music faculty at the University of Minnesota. Miss Hanson will teach the "group vocal" classes, give private instruction in voice and band, and direct the glee clubs and other vocal groups.

Miss Jean Schanke of Minneapolis has been secured as a successor to Miss Frykman as instructor in piano. Miss Schanke received her B. A. degree from the University of Minnesota in 1940 and her Bachelor of Science degree one year later. She has had two years of teaching experience as music instructor at the Oneida Community School at Oneida, Illinois.

Miss Schanke will give private instruction in piano, work with Miss Hanson in the maintenance of the school orchestra and band, and act as accompanist for school programs and assemblies.

Scholarship Winners Notified

The winners of the Mutual Life Insurance Company and Sears, Roebuck and Company scholarships have been notified of appointments and their names will be announced in the October issue of the "Northwest School News." Four scholarships of fifty dollars each have been given by the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York through their district agents, Herman Miller of Crookston and M. J. Ebner of Wadena. The Life Insurance scholarships are awarded one boy and one girl in each of the agency districts.

Five scholarships of fifty dollars each and one scholarship of twenty-five dollars, presented by Sears, Roebuck and Company of Chicago, have been awarded. Boys and girls, to be eligible for Sears, Roebuck scholarships must show qualities of leadership and plan to continue in agriculture or homemaking and show need of assistance to continue their educational training.

The winners of the six Caleb Dorr scholarships, valued at fifteen dollars each, and the two Northwest School Alumni scholarships of twenty-five dollars each, were announced at Commencement time in March. These scholarships were awarded on the basis of scholastic records and progress made during the school year.

New Staff Members Secured

The Northwest School, the same as other schools of the country, has experienced a larger than usual "turnover" in teaching personnel. The Northwest School has been fortunate in retaining seventy per cent of the teaching staff and filling all vacancies. Marriage claimed the largest number of resigning staff members, illness in the family claimed one, Red Cross work one, and two accepted work in other fields.

The position as coach of athletics and instructor in animal husbandry has not been filled; however, an appointment will be made before the opening of the school year.

Homecoming, October 30

Homecoming date at the Northwest School has been tentatively set for Saturday, October 30, pending final arrangements for the Homecoming football game. The one Agricultural School Conference game will be played at Morris this year; however, a good game with some Red River Valley team will be scheduled for Homecoming.

The alumni reunion, postponed from the last Saturday of June, will be a feature of Homecoming. The Alumni Association business meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m., immediately following the Homecoming banquet.

Preliminary plans for Homecoming include a special assembly program at 11:30 a. m., the football game in the afternoon, and the dance and party scheduled for the evening.

NOTICE

The Northwest School wants names and addresses of former students and alumni in armed forces of the United States. The Northwest School would appreciate it if parents of men in service would notify the school promptly of any change of address so men in service will not lose any issues of the Northwest School News. School news will be sent regularly to boys in service when names and addresses are received. Send information to Sup't T. M. McCall, Northwest School, Crookston, Minn.

Hemp Project Proves Interesting

One acre of experimental hemp plots was planted last May at the Northwest Experiment Station under the direction of the station agronomist, R. S. Dunham, in a cooperative project with the Federal Office of Fiber Investigations. Two varieties of hemp were planted, the Kentucky and Chilean. The seed of the two varieties was planted at different rates per acre with different seed treatments.

A number of square yard samples of each plot have been cut for laboratory testing. The balance of the plots will be cut for dew retting during September and October. The cultural and retting tests on hemp will be conducted at various parts of the Red River Valley for a number of years to determine whether or not the temperature and soil conditions are suitable for the profitable production of hemp and whether or not proper weather conditions prevail at harvest time for the proper retting of the crop. Previous tests of hemp at the Northwest Station and other locations in the Red River Valley were not conducted long enough to determine the suitability of the region for hemp fiber production.

Foreign Rocks And Minerals Wanted

An invitation is extended all Northwest School service men to build up a memorial collection of rocks and minerals collected while on overseas service. A very creditable collection of rocks and minerals from the United States has been assembled under the direction of R. S. Dunham, Northwest Station agronomist. Full data should be supplied with all specimens sent to the Northwest School and Station. Mr. Dunham states the full credit for gifts will be given all donors in the rock and mineral collection.

The Northwest School Teaching Staff

The Northwest School has been extremely fortunate through the years in retaining the services of outstanding teachers and heads of departments in the school and experiment station. The men in charge of the various departments of the Experiment Station have been able to bring to the attention of their classes the latest information regarding new developments in their respective fields. Their active direction of the work in the various departments together with farm visitations and county, district, and state fair judging, has made the heads of departments recognized authorities in their fields.

Members of the academic staff keep abreast of new developments in their field through graduate work in colleges and universities during the spring and summer months.

Northwest School staff members for the 1943-44 school year, listed by departments, are: Farm Marketing—Superintendent T. M. McCall; Registrar and Mathematics—R. J. Halvorson; Agronomy—R. S. Dunham; Agricultural Engineering—A. M. Foker, H. W. Soderburg, William Barron; Animal Husbandry—O. M. Kiser; Poultry Husbandry—A. M. ## Miss Kingston Resigns Position

Miss Elsie Kingston, instructor at the Northwest School for a number of years in the Home Economics Department, resigned her position in late summer to remain at home and care for her mother who is ill. Miss Kingston made an enviable reputation in her clothing and art work while at the Northwest School. She did substitute teaching in clothing work at Macalester College, St. Paul, during the spring quarter and summer session. While at the Northwest School she also acted as preceptress of the Home Economics dormitory.

The Potato Situation

J. H. Wampole

A slightly better than average potato crop is in prospect for the Red River Valley. Sporadic appearances of late blight in the Red River Valley counties are much less severe than in 1942, and with favorable fall weather, only a low per cent of damage to the potato crop is expected. The effective spraying control program adopted by leading potato growers has kept the potato diseases in check and proved valuable crop insurance.

The premature death of potato vines on many potato fields has been due quite largely to a combination of injuries brought on by early leaf blight, flea beetle injury, and hopper burn. The early blight, a leaf spot disease of the leaves of the potato and tomato, has been much more prevalent this year than for many years. The disease is easily distinguished from the more serious late blight of the potato by the dry brown leaf spots which have characteristic concentric line markings. The early blight reduces potato yields through the premature killing of the foliage. The injury from early blight is aggravated by injury from potato flea beetles. The early blight leaf spot is a local infection. Many of the spots may run together and cause the drying up of the entire leaflet. The late blight, instead of being dry, starts as a moist diseased area with dense clusters of spore stalks on the under side of the leaf making a dormy mildew. The chocolate brown spot of the late blight surrounded by a water-soaked green area and the characteristic odor of rotting potatoes makes the disease easy to identify. Late blight of potatoes, under favorable weather conditions, may kill the foliage on an entire field in but a few days.

The spraying of potato vines, in years favorable to early and light blight, should continue throughout the season. The foliage should be kept covered with the protective copper sprays which may require from three to six sprayings.

FOREIGN ROCKS AND MINERALS WANTED

The latest acquisition to the mineral exhibit at the Northwest School was a set of rockweathering samples from the Smithsonian Institution, U. S. National Museum, Washington, D. C.
